

Friends of MSF (Western University)

What is MSF?

Médécins Sans Frontières (MSF, translated into English as Doctors Without Borders) is an international non-profit organization that provides overseas medical aid in areas affected by global conflict, epidemics, or disasters. Their medical teams provide services such as vaccinations, maternal and child care, and critical surgeries. MSF also advocates for affordable medicines for those without access.

Who we are:

Friends of MSF is a student association at Western University affiliated with Médécins Sans Frontières. We are a diverse organization of students from all disciplines of undergraduate and graduate levels who are dedicated to supporting MSF operations through global health awareness initiatives, fundraising, and community collaboration.

As the USC club of the year, two consecutive years in a row, we are proud representors of MSF's UWO Western Chapter! There are many opportunities for members to get involved and meet one another. This year, we will be organizing incredible events for the Western community and our members and we would love to see you get involved!
