

Our Mission

Promote access to medicines and medical innovations in low- and middle-income countries by changing norms and practices around academic patenting and licensing, supported by our own independent research.

Ensure that university medical research meets the needs of people worldwide.

Empower students to respond to the access and innovation crisis.

UAEM x SRT Essential Care Packages

In December 2020, Universities Allied for Essential Medicines (UAEM) partnered with Student Relief Team (SRT) to assemble and deliver winter care packages for the homeless population in London. We ran a Krispy Kreme fundraiser to fund this project and bought items for the care packages. We sold over 90 boxes of donuts and were able to donate 40 care packages to the Canadian Mental Health Association and Youth Opportunities Unlimited.

Pandemic Policy Review

During the month of March 2021, UAEM reviewed COVID-19 policies and shared our findings on Facebook across three interactive posts. We received tons of engagement, with many responding to our posts to receive our gift card prizes, and were able to spread awareness across Canada through our targetted ads.

Approaching Equity in Global Health During COVID-19

In March 2021, UAEM collaborated with WHE, PIH, and GHEC to hold a two-day case conference. We had a variety of public health professionals as our speakers and a case competition judged by highly-experienced graduate students. We received over 40 students in attendance and had great presentations for our case competition.

Emerging and Re-emerging Infectious Diseases: Global Health Case Competition

PIH and UAEM collaborated to present a very successful case competition on global health and equity in medicine. Teams presented their policies for distributing a variety of resources during the COVID-19 pandemic in a low-income country, as a case provided by PIH. Dr. Lloy Wylie and Gerald McKinley presented fascinating lectures on public health and our role in contributing to equity.

Guest Speaker Event

In February 2021, UAEM had the pleasure of receiving an in-depth look at Dr. Chil-Yong Kang's COVID-19 and HIV vaccine research. With over 50 attendees, we received a lot of engagement during our question-and-answer period of our seminar, where students asked well-structured and thoughtful questions on Dr. Kang's research.

Global Health Report 2021

UAEM Western has been working on completing our Western Global Health Report, evaluating our school's research distribution and transparency policies. In this report, we have included interviews with tons of researchers, professors and graduate students from Western, as well as well-researched statistics pertaining to our school's current research administration. Watch out for the report, which will be released later this year!
