Our Vision

WHNW is a new, student-lead organization created for undergraduate and graduate students of all genders to empower women and advocate for women's health and wellness in our campus community and beyond.

By holding social and discussion-based events surrounding current topics in women's health, we wish to provide our members with the tools to become more knowledgeable about issues affecting the health of women in our communities and beyond today, as well as reduce some of the stigma surrounding 1 key topic: sexual and reproductive health in women.

2021-2022

Women's Health Network Western

"Being a part of WHNW has allowed me to put my education into action, get involved in community service, learn from healthcare professionals, and meet like-minded individuals who strive to change the future of healthcare!"

RENEE-GABRIELLE FAJARDO
VP Advocacy

Why Join WHNW?

WHNW strives to provide our members with opportunities that reflect our social and educational values, to help enhance your university experience and promote the empowerment of women-identifying individuals at Western and beyond. See below for some examples of our goals:

Social

- Club socials both on- and off-campus (TBA)
- Leadership skill development
- Networking opportunities
- Volunteering opportunities within the London region
- Meet other like-minded individuals who share a common interest in women's health and wellness advocacy

Educational

- Improved scientific literacy
- Have a willingness to learn and unlearn
- Help reduce stigma surrounding women's sexual and reproductive health
- Understand of the intersection between gender and health and health equity
- Educate the Western community on local and global barriers to women's health rights from the past and present, and their impact on women today
- Focus on the lived experiences of individuals of minority groups in our advocacy work

Our Past Events

WHNW hosts engaging and impactful events, focusing on the interests of Western students and our local community.
